Dr. Gwen McGhan (RN) and Dr. Deirdre McCaughey from the University of Calgary are conducting a research survey to learn about experiences of caregivers of people living with dementia during the COVID-19 pandemic. This survey builds on the pilot survey completed in Summer 2020 and expands the study to the entire province of Alberta. If you completed the pilot study, you can still participate in the updated survey!

Who is eligible?

Adults over the age of 18 that are caring for a person living with dementia

What will I be asked to do?

Fill out a 20 minute online survey

What are the benefits?

There is no direct benefit from filling out the survey. However, data we receive from this study may lead to improved resources & information for family caregivers during COVID-19 and in future public health emergencies
