

Leaving Home & Staying Safe

Balancing Risks & Mental Health

It is important to protect your mental health along with your physical health.

Even though staying at home is the best way to protect ourselves from COVID-19, we know that it can be stressful and isolating to stay home at all times.

If you feel distressed due to social isolation, we recommend that you partake in low and medium risk activities that are important to you. If getting your hair cut is something you enjoy, go ahead, and schedule an appointment! Don't be scared to go for a walk or meet your friends while social distancing or wearing a mask.

The most important thing you can do to minimize your risk of catching COVID-19 while protecting your mental health is by prioritizing what activities are most important to you and taking the appropriate measures to protect yourself while doing them—wearing a mask, social distancing and washing your hands often.

Whenever leaving home, it's important to take the necessary precautions, such as wearing a mask, washing hands frequently and maintaining a distance of at least six feet between yourself and others. If you are in need of masks, you can pick some up at a distribution centre near you:

The following recommendations have been adapted from "Going Out? Do it Safely?", from the Public Health Agency of Canada.

If you feel lonely or distressed due to social isolation, here are some recommendations:

1. Choose a couple low or medium risk activities that are important to you
2. Visit with family or friends while wearing a mask or social distancing
3. Take a walk or sit outside in your neighbourhood or local park

If you are over the age of 65 or have chronic health conditions, you are at a higher risk for a serious COVID-19 infection. This means that it is important to take extra precautions when leaving your home. One of the ways to do this is by understanding how risky different activities are.

LOW RISK Staying at home... Alone or with housemates Outside Activities with... Housemates Members of your cohort Physical distancing with others	MEDIUM RISK Indoor activities in small groups if you are... Wearing a mask Washing your hands often Inside for a short period of time	HIGH RISK Indoors with large groups Indoor/outdoor areas with crowds These activities are high risk even if you are wearing a mask, social distancing and washing your hands
EXAMPLES Getting the mail Grocery shopping Going for a walk Sitting in community parks Playing sports like tennis	EXAMPLES Hair salon or barbershop Medical appointments Transit or taxi rides Visiting family in their home Visiting malls, museums etc. Movie theatres Eating at a restaurant with a patio	EXAMPLES Indoor restaurants, bars, cafes Hugging, kissing, or shaking hands Larger religious/cultural gatherings Concerts Casinos Sharing food with friends & family Crowded public transit
